That is the touch of blessedness.

FOREWORD

In the life of every great institution there comes a time when it can pause and proudly look back upon its accomplishments. Seton Hall University may now well recall her own humble beginnings nearly a hundred years ago, and regard the colorful evolution toward the great university which she is today.

The GALLEON, which is the official pictorial mirror of the Class of 1951, simultaneously takes a glance backward to yesterday, or perhaps the day before yesterday, and presents the pageant of Seton Hall, which last year attained university status.

Nearly one hundred years ago, James Roosevelt Bayley, Bishop of Newark, founded in Madison, New Jersey, the college which he called Seton Hall, in honor of his saintly aunt, Mother Seton. The dream which Bishop Bayley and his successors visualized has today become reality and Seton Hall is one of America's great universities.

As the first yearbook published since university status was attained, the 1951 GALLEON salutes Seton Hall in the special HISTORIC SETONIA section, and proudly toasts a future which, by every indication, should be brilliant.

DEDICATION

Few of Setonia's sons are as representative of our great university as the Reverend Edward J. Fleming, Senior Class Moderator. His ever-ready assistance and encouragement have filled this year with bright spots at a time when the world was cursed with constant turmoil and confusion.

Thoroughly steeped in Seton Hall's traditions, being a graduate of the Prep School and the College as well as of Catholic University of America, Father Fleming is at once an inspiration and a friend to all who know him. Returning to Seton Hall last year as Professor of Religion following five years of parish duty in Summit, New Jersey, Father Fleming quickly plunged into a wide variety of activities, and soon won a far-reaching respect and admiration.

To Father Fleming—for his zeal for life, his devotion to Seton Hall, his great charm and his high priestly qualities—the Class of 1951 proudly dedicates this book.

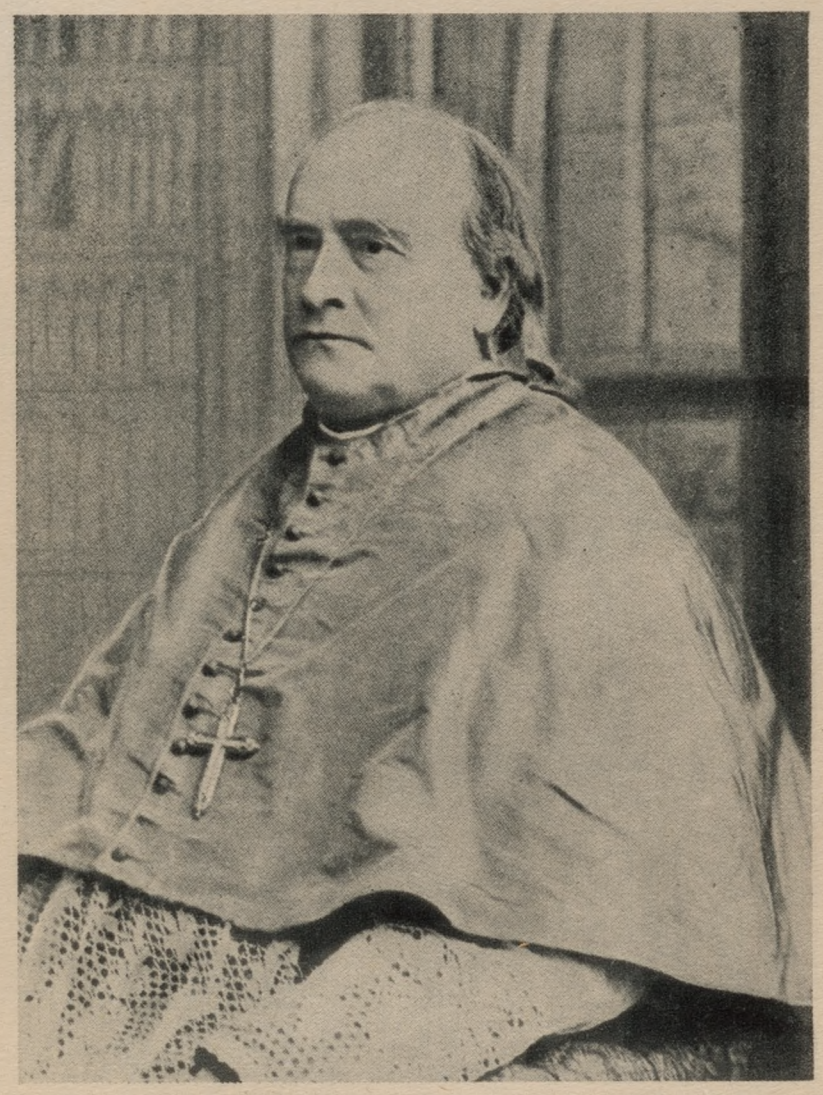
MOST REV.
JAMES ROOSEVELT BAYLEY

Scion of one of America's great families and cousin of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Bayley was a convert to Catholocism. He was Bishop of Newark, 1853-1872, and Archbishop of Baltimore, 1872-1877, and was the founder of Seton Hall, which he named in honor of his saintly aunt, Mother Seton.



1856

BERNARD J. McQUAID

First president of the foundling Seton Hall College in 1856, Msgr. McQuaid headed the school during its most difficult days, and was responsible for the transferring of Seton Hall from Madison to South Orange in 1861. He was later appointed the first Bishop of Rochester.

Seton Hall College had its humble beginnings in this frame building at Madison, New Jersey, the present site of the College of St. Elizabeth. Starting out with only a few "selected gentlemen from the vicinity of New York City", the college soon prospered and moved to larger quarters in South Orange.

The Mother Seton window, Administration Building, Seton Hall University, is one of the oldest known likenesses of the Saintly Elizabeth Bayley Seton.

MOST REVEREND MICHAEL A. CORRIGAN

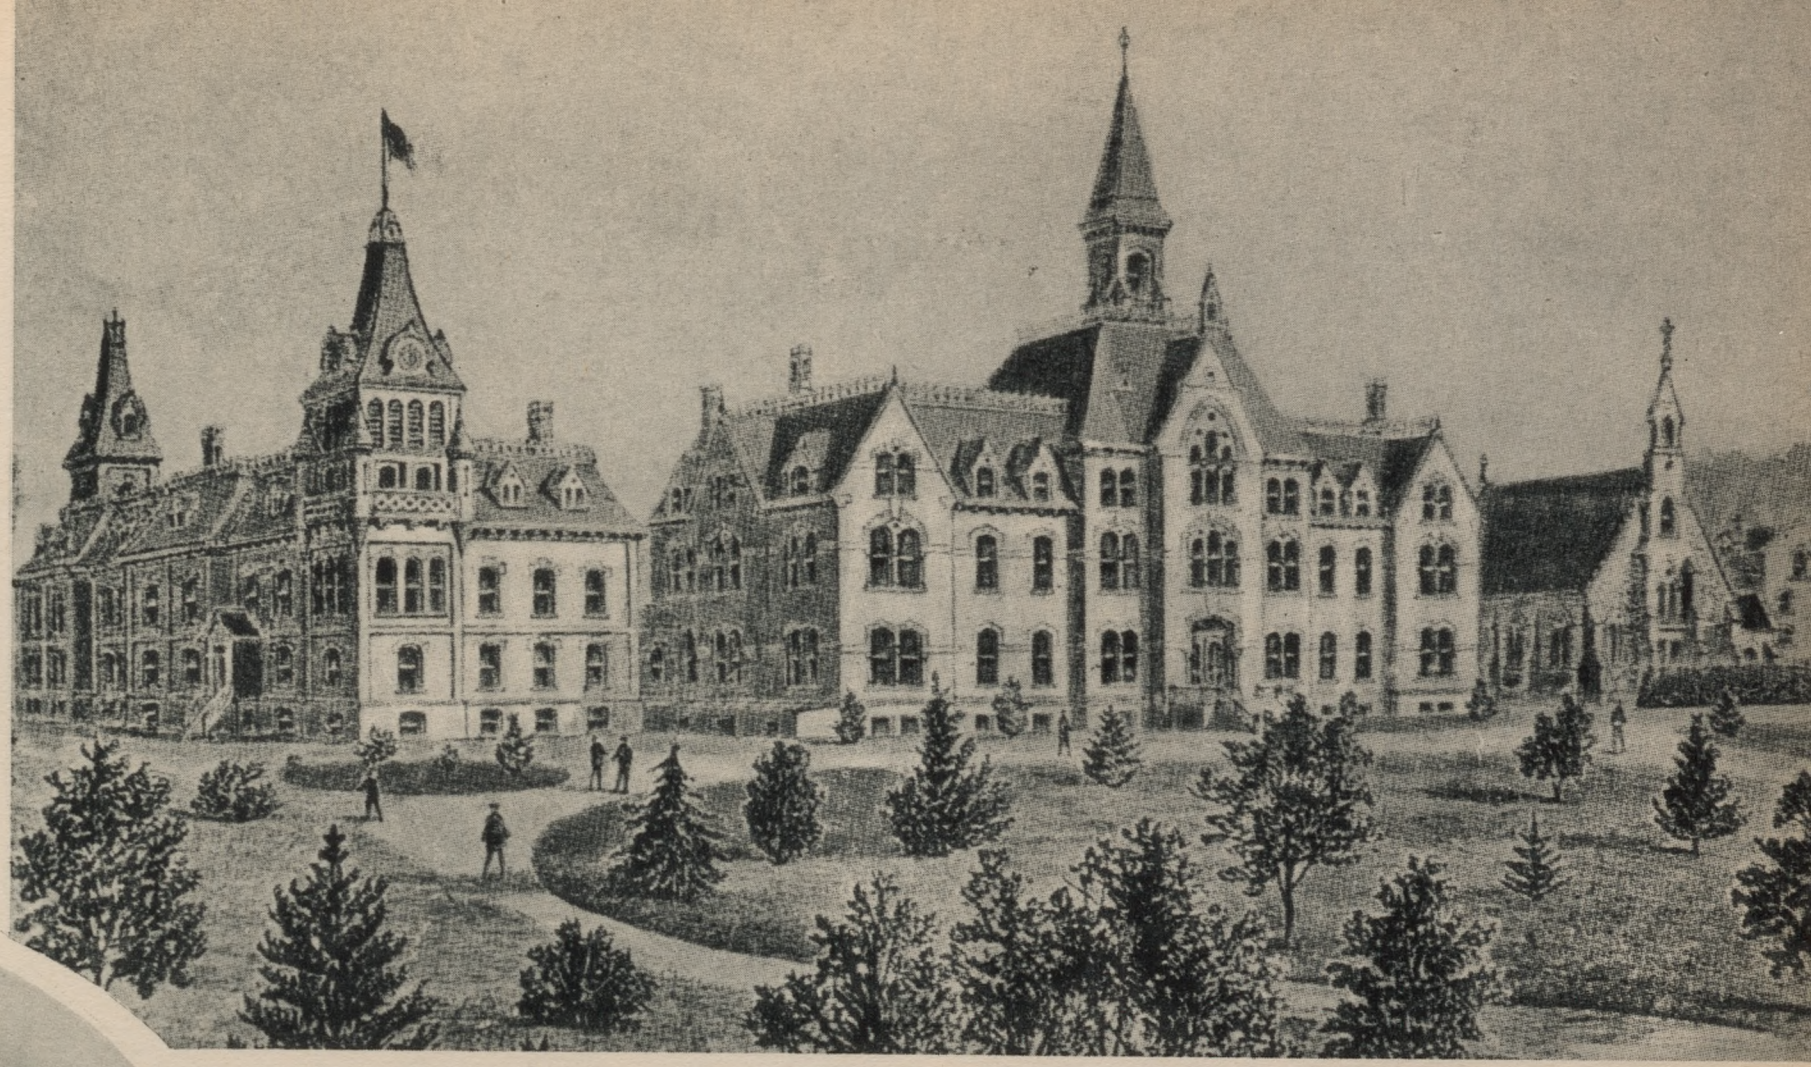
Third President of Seton Hall College, Dr. Corrigan was later Bishop of Newark, and, in 1865, became Archbishop of New York. During his administration of the school, he introduced many innovations, built new buildings, and widened the course of study. He was one of America's great Catholic churchmen, and one of Setonia's outstanding presidents.

1876 - 1888

REVEREND JAMES H. CORRIGAN

Fr. Corrigan succeeded his brother, Archbishop Corrigan, as fourth President upon the latter's resignation. Corrigan organized the Alumni Association, and celebrated the college's Silver Jubilee Year in 1881. The newly-organized alumni group constructed Alumni Hall in 1884.

The highlight of every scholastic year at Seton Hall College was the annual June commencement, which was a colorful, Victorian ceremony. The "Newark Journal" of June 17, 1885, said that "The exercises will be held in the new and spacious Alumni Hall . . . It is an elegant place and peculiarly adapted to the holding of such affairs. The programme arranged for the afternoon is a long and exceedingly interesting one, embracing singing, recitations, speech-making and awarding of prizes."



1869

In 1869, the campus looked much as it does above—a very Victorianized, regal group of buildings, built in the popular Gothic-Victorian type architecture which characterizes the era. Seton Hall was now graduating more and more students, and was supplying young priests to staff the new churches of the Diocese of Newark.

1888 - 1897

REVEREND WILLIAM F. MARSHALL

Setonia's fifth president was Fr. Marshall, who was a distinguished literary man, and who organized the Spanish-American War reserve unit at the South Orange campus.

SETON HALL DESTROYED

BURNING OF THE COLLEGE AT SOUTH ORANGE, N. J.

EFFORTS OF THE STUDENTS TO SAVE THE BUILDINGS—LOSS OF BETWEEN $50,000 AND $60,000.

The Rev. Dr. Corrigan, President of Seton Hall College, recently returned from Florida, and he was entertained by the Alumni of the college at Pinard's on Monday evening. He started for the college at South Orange yesterday afternoon to renew his labors. While on the train the conductor, recognizing the President, said as he collected his ticket:

"'Spose you're going out to the fire."

"Fire! Fire!" repeated the reverend gentleman. "What do you mean, my good man?"

"I mean," answered the conductor, "that Seton Hall is in flames."

As soon as the train stopped at the station, Dr. Corrigan hurried up the avenue and received

The two buildings shown in the rare engraving below formed part of the original Seton Hall group, but were destroyed in the several disastrous fires which swept the campus during this period.

These two photographs crystallize in graphic form what no amount of writing will ever capture: the Victorian gentleman, posing proudly for the picture which will record forever that blessed day: graduation!

1893

The 1893 football team of Seton Hall was formidable, indeed, and met on the field of battle with Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth and the Army teams. High-collared gentlemen sat on bleachers in the athletic field and cheered Old Setonia on to victory.

1896

1897 - 1899

REVEREND
JOSEPH J. SYNOTT

Death cut short what promised to be a brilliant career for Dr. Synott, and the articles written after the death of the sixth president stated that "Dr. Synott possessed a rarely gifted mind to which were added extraordinary industry, graceful manners, extreme modesty and a character firm as it was gentle."

RT. REV. MSGR.
JOHN A. STAFFORD

1899 - 1907

Competitive athletics were given added prominence during the administration of Msgr. Stafford, as America was now leaving behind the Victorian manners and attitudes. The more reckless students were seen driving high-topped autos down South Orange Avenue, and Seton Hall College celebrated its Golden Jubilee.

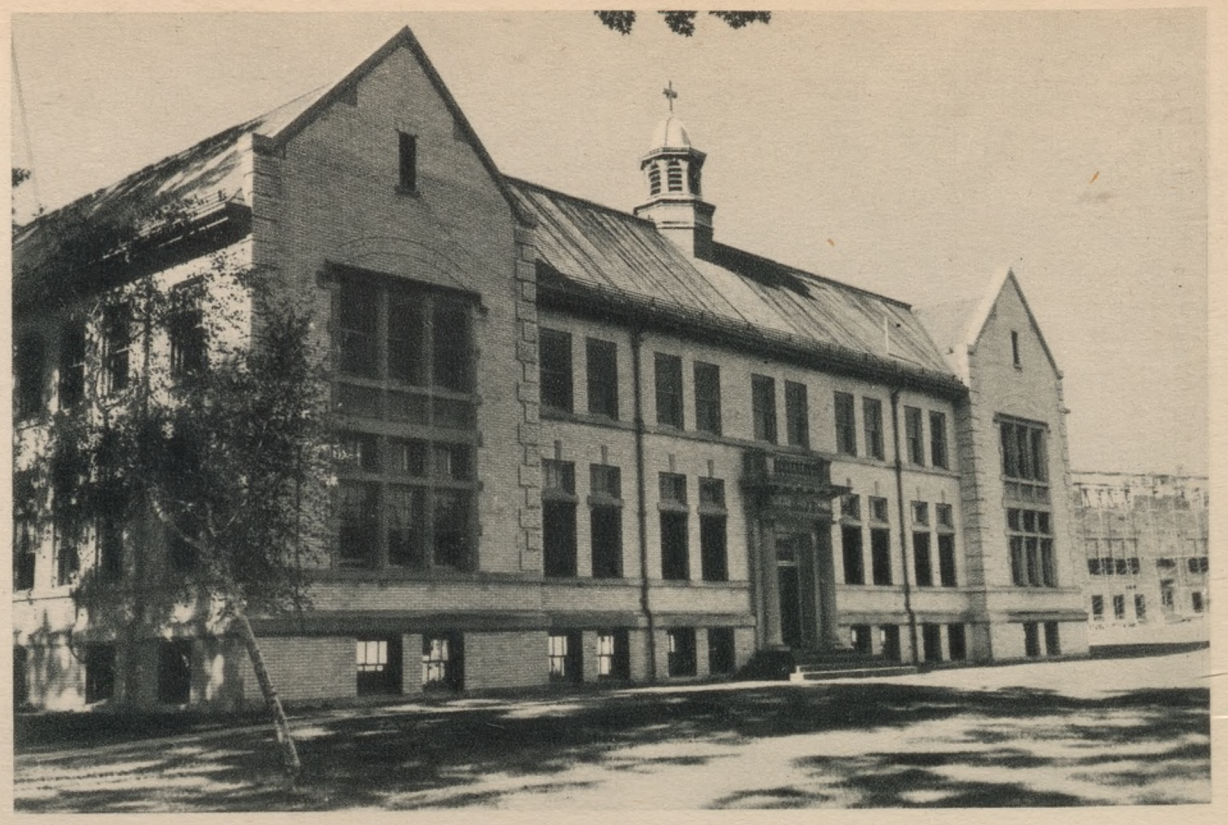
JOHN BARRYMORE



BAYLEY HALL

1903

During a near-century of existence, Seton Hall has probably produced no student who had so colorful an undergraduate period as that of the Great Profile—John Barrymore, whose legendary escapades include attempts to burn-down the buildings on several occasions!

1907 1922

1920 STUDENT

1922 1933

RT. REV. MSGR. JAMES F. MOONEY

The longest presidency was that of Msgr. Mooney, who guided the college through the disastrous fire of 1909, and the World War. He built Bayley Hall, and the Prep School buildings.

RT. REV. MSGR. THOMAS H. McLAUGHLIN

The separation of the Seminary from the secular college was completed under Msgr. McLaughlin, and the beginning of the eventual evolution of Seton Hall College toward one of America's great universities commenced.

1902

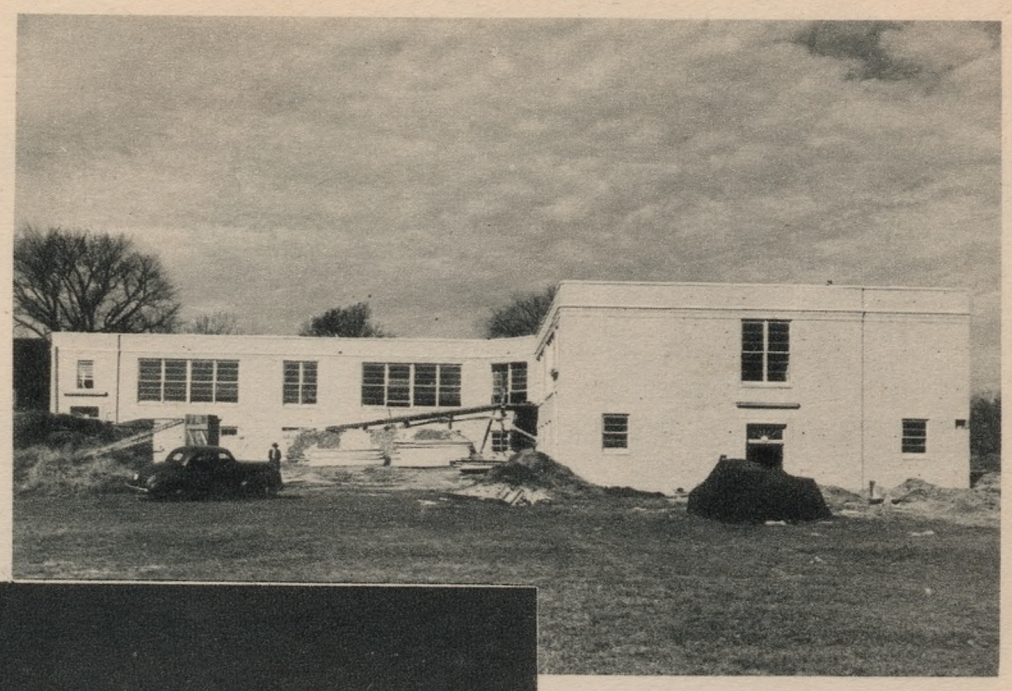
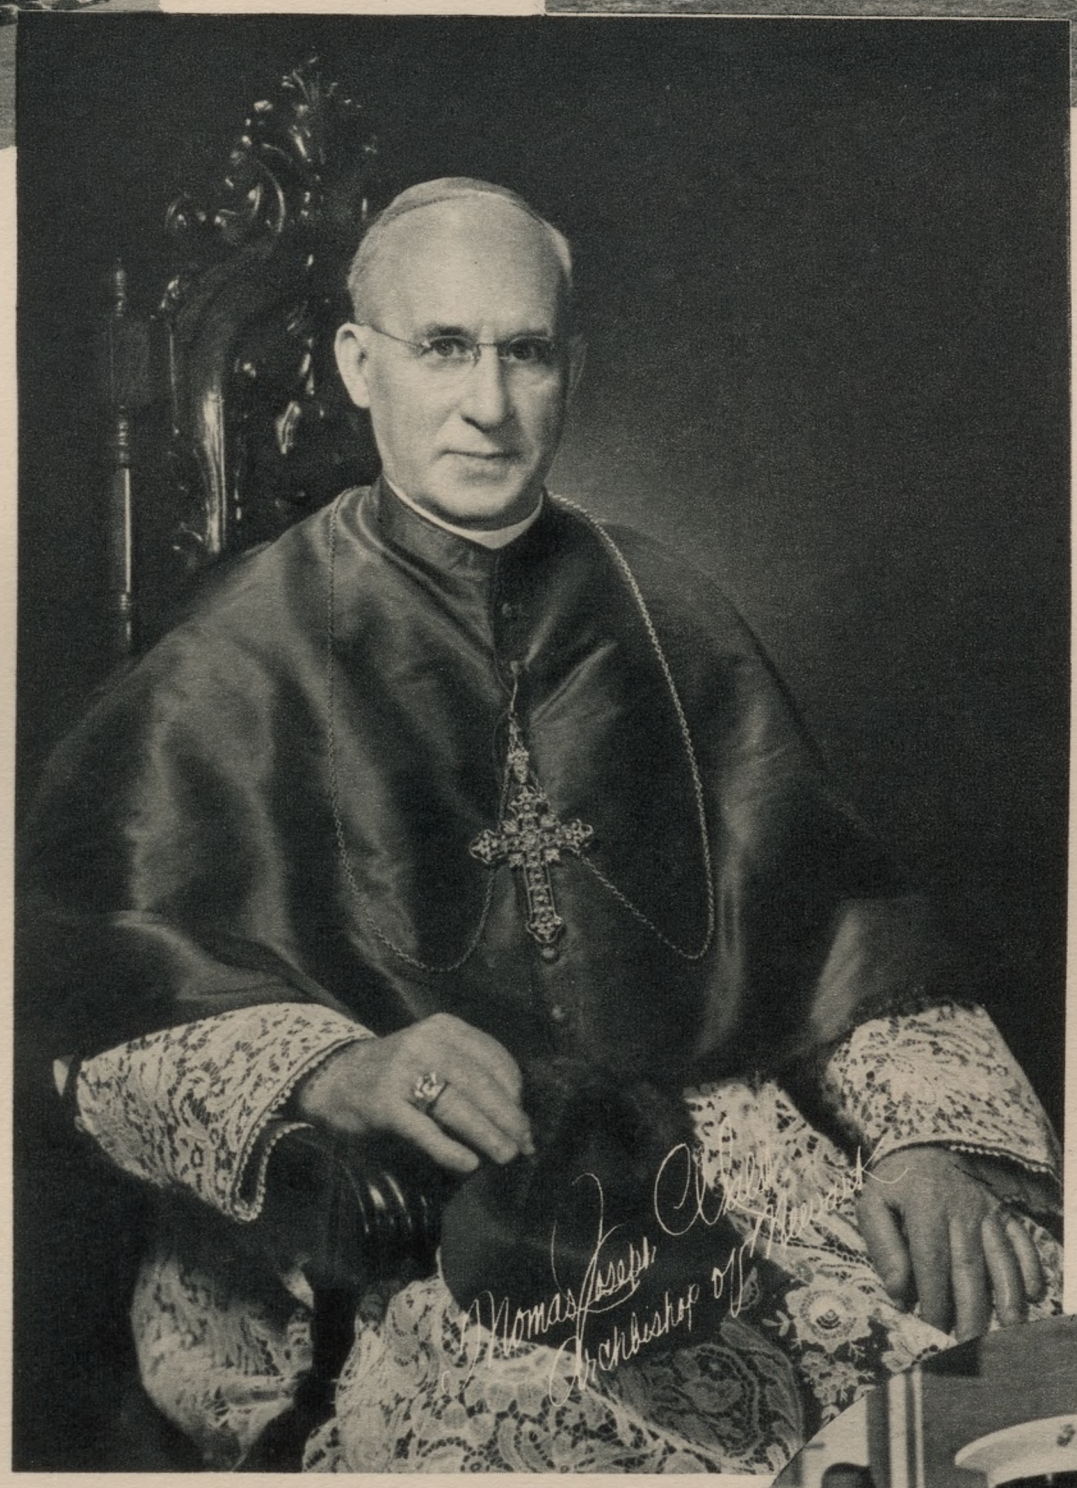
Symbolic of the progress made by Seton Hall are the magnificent Gymnasium-Auditorium and the antenna of Seton Hall's Radio Station WSOU-FM.



Following World War II, the great influx of returning veterans made necessary the construction of new buildings, among them the above classroom hall.



MOST REVEREND THOMAS JOSEPH WALSH, S.T.D., J.C.D.

ARCHBISHOP OF NEWARK

When Archbishop Walsh came to the Newark Diocese in 1928, he told the graduating class that "I shall dedicate my energies to the end that Seton Hall will become the outstanding institution of diocesan education in the United States." In 1928, Seton Hall had only a few hundred students and one school of liberal arts and sciences; today, there are more than 9,100 students and the college, founded almost a hundred years ago, has now become one of America's great universities. Tribute deservedly goes to Archbishop Walsh for his untiring efforts to evolve Seton Hall to its present status, and for his great interest in the university's future.

1928 - 1951

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz was awarded an honorary degree by Seton Hall in 1947, and is pictured with Archbishop Walsh on the campus grounds.

RIGHT REVEREND MONSIGNOR
JAMES F. KELLEY

The youngest college president in the United States at the time of his appointment, Msgr. Kelley introduced the Urban Division and the campus Summer School. The Gymnasium-Auditorium and "B" Building were built during his administration.

Resolution passed by the Board of Education of the State of New Jersey on June 2, 1950:

Whereas, Seton Hall College, by official resolution of its Board of Trustees, has voted to reorganize as a university, and whereas, this reorganization is in accord with the charter granted to Seton Hall College in 1856, be it therefore resolved that the Commissioner of Education is hereby authorized to notify the Secretary of the Board of Trustees of Seton Hall College that the State Board of Education endorses its efforts to improve its standards of education by reorganizing into clearly defined colleges and schools and changing the institutional name from Seton Hall College to Seton Hall University. And be it further resolved that the Commissioner of Education is authorized to advise with the officials of Seton Hall University in planning its reorganization and in developing its curriculums for the various colleges and schools of the university.

1950 – LAW SCHOOL OF SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

Long associated with Seton Hall is Monsignor McNulty who became the twelfth president in 1949. The first years of his presidency have been momentous: the college became a university of seven schools, a building program was inaugurated, and another world conflict casts the shadow of war over Setonia's walls.

In 1946, Joe Seton came to Seton Hall and will remain forever as the perennial undergraduate.

Climaxing four full years with a Galleon Ball that will always remain in the memories of those who attended it, the Class of 1951 has just cause to be proud of its accomplishments. The Senior Send-Off Dance which was held in conjunction with the Annual Pep Rally and Parade was an auspicious start to a very successful basketball season.

As soon as the Send-Off Dance had been held the class began work on its major undertaking of the year, the Galleon Ball. Under the capable chairmanship of George DiGidio, the committee planned and carried out the most successful function of the Senior Class.

President Pete Jones was assisted in the performance of his many duties by a group of equally able officers; Vice President Tom Culkin, Secretary Bill Janowski, and Treasurer Phil Thigpen. The entire class appreciated the leadership which these men provided. Neither will the class forget the fine representation which Joe Frattali and Sam Spina gave them in the Student Council.

The Senior Class is proud of having attended Seton Hall and she will be in their prayers always.

THE SENIOR TO SETONIA

By Peter Greene

Noble nurse of all our craving,
You who set our minds astir
With truths so beautiful and saving
Guide our course now, lest we err.

Lest we err in the understanding
Of our purposes and our goal.
Pray our love be strong, commanding
Every action of the soul.

Pray only worthy thoughts be given
Us your children. Help us walk
That we lose not sight of heaven,
Though about us shadows stalk.

O pray that we like oaks be steady
In our faith each day we live,
Prepare us now and make us ready
For the thrusts cruel fortunes give.

Give us now your kiss of parting
Banish from our hearts their fears.
And bless the travels that we're starting
So uncertain down the years.

JUNIORS

Few institutions of higher learning are fortunate enough to number among their students as many resourceful and alert young men as Seton Hall has in the Class of 1952. Building upon the firm foundations laid by their predecessors, the Junior Class has already realized many of the potentialities which were displayed when it matriculated to Seton Hall in 1948, and the Juniors give every indication of reaching full fruition before they are graduated.

The Junior Class presented one of the most successful social events of the school year on December 16, 1950 when the Annual Christmas Dance was held in the University Gymnasium. The five hundred couples who attended had a most enjoyable evening, as they glided over the dance floor to the pleasant music of Ray Eberle and his Orchestra.

Under the co-chairmanship of Dan Reynolds and Dick O'Donnell the committee had spent many hours, both in planning and in plain hard work, to insure the well-earned success of the dance. Some of the men who helped in this well-planned undertaking were J. Garrigan, A. McMenemy, B. Peacock, W. Donahue, J. Grady, E. Harkins, J. Duffy, P. Heiser, G. Psycos, J. Harkins and R. Langdon. However, everyone knows that the loyal sense of cooperation, which has been so apparent in the Class of 1952, was the greatest single reason for the success of this dance.

As the spring semester drew on the Junior Class Officers, President Peacock, Vice-President O'Donnell, Treasurer Kelly, and Secretary Harkins, along with Mr. Norbert R. Connair, Junior Class Moderator, and Mr. Maurice W. LeCalvez, Director of the Department of Student Affairs, began to consider the many ramifications that arise from a social function of the scope of the Junior Prom. After due consideration it was decided that the preliminary arrangements would be left in the hands of Jim Garrigan and Bob Peacock. These two gentlemen, after a thorough investigation, signed a contract with the Statler Hotel in New York City for Friday evening, May 11, 1951. Every indication points toward a Junior Prom which will follow the successful pattern set in previous years.

Among the many other plans which have been projected by the Junior Class Officers was the continuance of the traditional "Junior Day". President Peacock has appointed Al McMenemy to be general chairman of this important function.

SOPHOMORES

During their sophomore year the members of the class of"53", thoroughly imbued with the traditions of Seton Hall, began to play their part in the continuation of those traditions. As their first and largest program, the class, under the direction of President Dalena, conducted the Freshman-hazing program. In conjunction with the Department of Student Affairs, the Sophomore Class promulgated the rules and regulations which the Freshman Class was bound to keep. Violators of these regulations were swiftly apprehended and presented with a summons to appear before the Vigilance court. There, under the supervision of a faculty member serving as judge, the guilty were separated from the innocent and the offenders were given appropriate sentences.

While busily conducting their witch-hunt for non-conforming Freshmen, the Sophomore officers, President Dalena, Vice-President Clare, Treasurer Johnson, Secretary Regan, and Student Council representatives Carlone and Martin, also found time to formulate plans for the Harvest Moon Ball, which was successfully held on November 18, 1950. The hard work and the great number of hours which the class of "53" had lavished on its first social function yielded fruit a hundred-fold when over five hundred happy couples relaxed under the influence of pleasant music and convivial companionship.

At their dance the Sophomores were able to temporarily forget their unpleasant experience with the beanie pole, when, through a most obscure and much disputed interpretation of a vague regulation, the insignificant nonentities who composed the Class of "54" were able to capture the beanie which had been situated atop a twenty-five foot pole, and thus obtain freedom from oppression in the form of Freshman regulations.

As the Christmas Season approached, the Sophomores folded their collapsible coffee cups and quietly stole away to prepare for the impending semester examinations.

With the advent of the new semester, the class of "53" lost the active support of one of its greatest friends when Dr. John Kean was transferred to the faculty of the University Law School in Jersey City. Dr. Kean, as moderator of the class, had given encouragement and assistance to the class at a time when wise and able guidance was most needed. In recognition of his valuable friendship the Sophomores, on the evening of March 1, 1951, humbly paid tribute to his faithful service at a testimonial dinner held at Charlie Wille's Restaurant in West Orange.

In September of 1950, six hundred bewildered, confused, and frustrated human beings began what was to be, for most of them, the four most important years of their lives. Almost of all these men had just completed high school and had, after due deliberation, concluded that one year of college was better than a hasty entrance into miliary service. Realizing the strong possibility of interruption of their studies, they nevertheless wisely felt that a bird in the hand is worth four in the future and began their college careers.

Entering Seton Hall in 1950 a new student was confronted with many problems in addition to the chaotic international situation. The transformation from College to University, the building program, R.O.T.C., and, most conspicuous of all, Freshman-hazing, were innovations which the class of 1954 had to face.

Confronted with numerous and often-times arbitrary regulations, some of the frosh immediately asserted their individuality and refused to comply. Many of them learned to their chagrin that the Sophomores, and the Vigilance Court, were not to be trifled with.

However, every dog has his day, and on November 15, 1950, the worm turned and swiftly captured the beanie from the outnumbered and confused Sophomores as hundreds of amazed upperclassmen looked on. This completed the naturalization process and the class of "54" became full-fledged Setonians, with the right to burn their beanies.

By Thanksgiving, Freshman elections had been completed and President Macaluso, Vice-President Rafferty, Treasurer Ciniglio, Secretary Summers, and Student Council members Lovett and Kazimir began to plan future activities with Mr. William R. Dineen, Dean of Freshmen. Out of this careful planning came the details for the Freshman Snowball Dance which offered a pleasing diversion to hundreds of students and their dates, bringing a fitting climax to semester examinations.

While conquering the vagaries of hazing, conducting election campaigns, and presenting social functions, the freshmen also were busily solving their other problems. Seton Hall's new Reserve Officers Training Corps presented a splendid opportunity to insure a draft-exempt four years of higher education for any qualified young man. Moreover, while a member of the R.O.T.C., the Reserve Officer candidate knew that he was contributing to the defense of his nation.

With the confidence of youth tempered by a humble appreciation of the responsibilities which their Catholic Education places upon them, the members of the Class of "54" fearlessly face the future.

"How I hate to get up in the morning . . ."

"You're in the Army, now . . ."

In line with its policy of rendering complete service to its Student Body, Seton Hall University is now presenting the opportunity of joining the Reserve Officers Training Corp to each of its students. Formed in September of 1950, the Seton Hall Unit is one of the largest in the country and is still growing. Under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Louis Mark, the staff, composed of Lieutenant Colonel Feehan, Captain Flanagan, Captain Flahaven, M/Sgt. Kennedy, M/Sgt. Sapienza, M/Sgt. Stewart, Sgt. Griswold and Sgt. Sandelier, has swiftly become a part of Seton Hall.

The basic thesis behind R.O.T.C. is that a man who has completed a college course which has included classes in military science and tactics is the man best qualified to lead the soldiers of the United States Army. Throughout the years, the conduct of R.O.T.C. graduates, both in time of war and in the regular army, has given excellent proof for the validity of this premise.

In a democratic society every citizen is expected to work for the common good, and the average Seton Hall student cannot better prepare himself to serve his nation than by participating in the R.O.T.C. program. While the program extends back for more than a century, the Reserve Officers Training Corps as it is known today did not evolve until 1916. Since then the R.O.T.C. has produced over one hundred fifty thousand reserve officers from over three hundred educational institutions.

Through this program, young men, after acquiring the theoretical aspects of military science in the classroom, are given the opportunity to apply this theory in the summer camp. This camp is usually provided during the advanced course and the men who participate are given not only a thorough indoctrination in military tactics but ample time for recreational activities as well.

The R.O.T.C. also offers the opportunity of membership in the Pershing Rifles, a national military society.

This year has also seen the start of what is hoped will become one of Seton Hall's outstanding social events, the Military Ball. Held on April 7, 1951 in the Gymnasium, the Military Ball set an envious standard for future committees to strive for.

The Faculty Council on Student Affairs

Standing: Mr. William Dineen, Mr. Norbert Connair, Dr. John Kean, Mr. Maurice LeCalvez.

The Faculty Council on Student Affairs is one of the newest and most important organizations on the Campus. Its chief function is to act as an advisory board to the Director of the Department of Student Affairs. Composed of the Dean of Men, Dean of Freshmen, the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Class Moderators, the Director of Business Affairs, the Director of the Student Affairs Department as chairman, and the Vice-President as honorary chairman, the Council determines the policy of the Department of Student Affairs on major problems affecting Student Activities.

The Faculty Council on Student Affairs also has the important duty of passing judgment on the budget of every organization under the jurisdiction of the Department. Their wide experience in student activities enable them to objectively ascertain the prudence of each expenditure and thus insure the financial soundness of each budget approved by the Department of Student Affairs.

The third function of the Faculty Council is to serve as the faculty portion of the Student-Faculty Committee, another innovation which was brought about through the creation of the Department of Student Affairs. Working in conjunction with the Executive Committee of the Student Council, which is the student delegation to the Student-Faculty committee, the Faculty Council carefully screened the Seton Hall nominees to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. From this fine start, it is hoped that the Committee will continue to expand its activities to further improve the already excellent relations between the Faculty and the Student Body.

Student government at Seton Hall has known a long and distinguished past. Originally conceived as a directive agency with the power to coordinate student affairs, the Student Council established a fine tradition down through the years. With the transition from college to university, the Council entered a new and dynamic phase, for in this, the first and most crucial year of its new existence, The Council dedicated itself to the fundamental task of providing the University with an ideal student government so that The Council might attain its true place in the scheme of things at Seton Hall in future years.

The first step in the reconstruction of the student government was the ratification of a new Constitution – the signal achievement of the year. Then followed the appointment of three new committees. These committees are the Adjunct Committee, the Small Cause Committee, and the Student-Faculty Committee. The Adjunct Committee, composed of the executive officers of all campus organizations, is an advisory body whose primary function is to aid The Council in the co-ordination of the on-campus activities program. At the regular monthly meetings, informed student opinion is distilled and embodied in specific recommendations to The Council. The Small Cause Committee was also created and given wide powers to investigate student grievances and make recommendations for their adjustment. In late October, a Student-Faculty Committee was formed in order to improve the relations existing between the Faculty and the Student Body.

With the task of reconstruction nearly completed, The Council launched one final project during the second semester. A committee to investigate the whole field of student government was appointed and charged with the task of resolving certain administrative problems by establishing the honor system, a point system in extra-curricular activities, a traffic court, and a study lounge in the cafeteria – all of which will greatly expand the executive and judicial power of The Council. The work of this committee portends much for student government at Seton Hall.

In addition to the fundamental task of reconstruction, The Council has carried on various other activities during the year. The annual Community Chest drive was conducted by a special committee of The Council and raised $125.00.

In December another committee was appointed to secure a general campus-wide protest against the recognition of "Red China" by the United Nations. So effective was the work of this committee that it received a congratulatory message from Father James Keller, leader of the Christopher Movement. The Council also sponsored monthly Masses for the Missions and, with the aid of the Department of Student Affairs, co-ordinated the many intercollegiate social activities to which the Student Body had been invited.

This first University Student Council has made great progress during the difficult period of transition. They have set an example of initiative and thoroughness which will long serve as a model to the Student Councils of the future. Hard work and devotion to duty are apparent behind the many accomplishments of The Council this year. Their sincere efforts to better the lot of the average student have shown that members of the 1951 Student Council were well aware of their obligations as student leaders.

NATIONAL FEDERATION OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE

The National Federation of Catholic College Students is an intercollegiate organization whose primary purpose is to acquaint Catholic college students with their responsibility to the student community and to the post-college community. Formed in 1937 in the New York area, the Federation has spread over the entire nation, having over two hundred Catholic Colleges affiliated with it.

Under the moderatorship of Reverend Joseph T. Shea, Seton Hall has played an important part in the activities of the New York-New Jersey Region, of which she is a charter member. In May 1950 the Student Council unanimously elected Robert Henry as Senior Delegate, William F. Morley as Junior Delegate, and Eugene Ingalls as Third Voting Delegate. These men served as the main link between the student body on the campus and the National and Regional Organizations.

Through its Commissions, which are intercollegiate associations for study and action in relation to religious, cultural, social, political and economic problems, treated in the light of Catholic teaching and from the viewpoint of student life, the Federation attempts to integrate all the similar extra-curricular activities of its member colleges. Through this system many of Seton Hall's organizations have exchanged ideas with related organizations in other Catholic colleges to the advantage of both groups.

REVEREND JOSEPH T. SHEA, MODERATOR

This past school year has seen two important innovations in Federation activity. One of them originated on the Campus, the other was instituted in the Region.

In November, through the cooperation of the Student Council, the Seton Hall Campus Council of the National Federation of Catholic College Students was formed. Every Seton Hall organization is entitled to representation in this Council, which has many purposes.

STUDENTS

The Voting Delegates look over the Campus. R. Henry, E. Ingalls, W. Morley.

The other innovation was the introduction of The Interest Group System. Interest Groups are organizations composed of two or more commissions or committees of a similar nature, and one representative from each college in the region. In this way people interested in a specific sphere are kept informed of all activities of an allied nature, and, through a coordination of programs, the events are spaced far enough apart to allow everyone to attend each program presented. Seton Hall was represented in The Religious Action Interest Group by Dick Rento, International Affairs Interest Group by Gene Goceljack, Social Action Interest Group by Joe Jevnick, Student Affairs Interest Group by Don Mathews and Communication Interest Group by John Demaray.

Among the outstanding Regional events at which Seton Hall men were in attendance were the Regional Congress, the Education Day, the Marian Congress and the Student Government Workshop.

KNIGHTS OF SETONIA

Fourteen years ago, eight boys in the Prep and one of the priests on the campus decided that there was room for a little more religion on the part of the Seton Hall men. Consequently, with the permission of Monsignor Kelley, the Knights of Setonia was formed. The only obligation membership imposes is receiving the Body and Blood of Our Lord once a week in the College Chapel — the benefits of which are eternal.

The good women of the Bayley-Seton League, most of them mothers of the students, agreed to co-operate by coming to the campus to serve breakfast to the men who were Knights.

That was fourteen years ago, and the Knights of Setonia came to the chapel one day a week.

Times have changed. Today the chapel on the campus is crowded four mornings a week. The University Knights, under the supervision of Father Carey, are in the chapel on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and the boys in the High School, under the supervision of Father Hakim, are in the chapel on Thursdays and Fridays. On all of these days, the priests on the campus, from the University and the High School, hear confessions before and during mass.

The students, too, have their part in the organization. They assist admirably by ushering, distributing the breakfast cards, and helping the women of the Bayley-Seton League with the breakfast.

This year, we have been most fortunate again in having two students who have done a marvelous job in directing the work of the Knights of Setonia. These men are Charlie Harris and William Minogue. Their assistance made it possible for many men to get to the altar rail this year.

Seton Hall University may not have the best buildings among the leading Universities in the world, but if our men leave here as Knights of Setonia, we may rest assured that real Christ-like men are being sent out into the world, well-fortified to meet the everyday challenges which will confront them.

The Senior Ring Committee
M. Palisi, M. Balint, M. McGarry, C. Pecora, R. Maiorino

One of the most important functions of the executive committees of the Junior and Senior classes is the selection of good ring committees. The decisions which these men make bind, not only the class, but the school as well. Seton Hall can well be proud of the accomplishments of this year's committee. The general chairman of the group was Martin W. McGarry. He was assisted by Marino Palisi, Richard Maiorino, Cornelius Pecora, Matthew Balint and Harry Bright, from the Senior Class, and an equal number of men from the Junior Class. Philip Thigpen, Senior Class Treasurer, acted as liaison between the committee and the class officers and Sam Spina, Student Council Treasurer, performed the same function between the council and the committee.

Besides the usual responsibility of selecting a reliable business firm with whom to conclude the contract, this year's committee had the added duty of choosing a permanent design for the new University ring and securing a long term contract for this ring. This newly-adopted policy of the Department of Student Affairs will establish a ring which will immediately be recognized as the Seton Hall Ring no matter where it may be found.

Following the example set by the Class of 1950, the Senior Class Officers again appointed Galleon Co-Editors. Realizing the advantages of having a permanent photographer and a permanent printer and confident of the decision made by last year's Editors, Co-Editors Joseph A. Moore and Robert Henry re-awarded the contracts to Zamsky Studios and Progress Associates Inc. Their confidence was not misplaced, as the same fine spirit of harmony and cooperation was again evident in all of the Galleon transactions.

When the appeal for Galleon Staff members was made to the Senior Class, the response was immediate and overwhelming. Student leaders from all organizations and with many diversified talents offered their services. From this group, an adequate and able staff was swiftly formed and Nowhere was the quality of gracious assistance more evident than in the Moderator, Rev. Edward J. Fleming. Father Fleming,by his constant interest, advice, assistance, and encouragement has been an inspiration and a friend to the entire staff, setting an example for all to imitate.

A very good way to follow the growth of Seton Hall is to follow the growth of the Setonian When it was organized in 1924 the Setonian was a monthly news magazine. Commensurate with the growth of the Hall, the Setonian became a semi-monthly and, in 1950, with the advent of the University, it became a weekly.

This change in the frequency of appearance caused many new problems, and Editor-in-Chief Robert Bain was fortunate in having the ever-ready guidance of Reverend Clement Ockay to help organize the myriad details. The Sports Staff was headed by Anthony Palisi, Tom Haber was Feature Editor, and together wtih Managing Editor Howard Wolff, Business Manager Martin Rieschl and Advertising Editor Jack Herity, these men formed the policy of the Setonian. However, one should not get the impression that a few men did all the work because every member of the Setonian staff contributed to the fine success which the paper enjoyed.

In addition to their many duties associated with a weekly newspaper the Setonian Staff still found time to organize and conduct their Annual Queen of the Campus Dance, which was one of April's big social events.

Looking back over its year's work, the Setonian Staff has just cause for being proud. They can confidently leave, knowing they have left a goal for future staffs to attain.

The development of radio broadcasting in the last two decades, has had a profound influence on men and nations. Radio programs have changed our environment and conditioned our behavior. Consequently, Seton Hall University has offered for the past three years an extensive study in Radio, with an emphasis on the practical phases of radio broadcasting, using the excellent facilities of WSOU-FM.

WSOU-FM, the Radio Voice of Seton Hall University, broadcasting on a band of 89.5 megacycles, has an effective radiated power of 2000 Watts and is heard regularly within a radius of 150 miles, which embraces the greater metropolitan area. WSOU is operated entirely by the students of the University, most of whom are enrolled in the Department of Communication Arts. It has three studios, a news booth, a news room, and four remote lines.

The most important part of a radio station is its staff, and WSOU this year had the services of over one hundred students, who took full advantage of the opportunities offered to them to receive practical training in the technical as well as the professional phases of radio.

A very important part of WSOU is its control room. The responsibility for keeping the station on the air rests upon the shoulders of the engineers. Thomas Parnham, chief engineer, and his assistants performed an excellent job at the console, engineering perfectly and smoothly all the varied portions of a broadcast. The announcing staff was headed by George Stapleton, with Paul Irvine as his chief associate. Robert Faraher was station manager and Martin Scanlon was production director. Anthony Del Tufo capably filled the position of music librarian and made the work of Edward Chebra, classical director, and his associates, as well as all announcers connected with the popular record shows much easier.

GLEE CLUB

The Seton Hall Glee Club was founded by Father Adrian A. Maine in 1926 with the expressed purpose of exposing the artistic harmony of God's most wonderful instrument, the human voice.

Year after year the organization saw many new and unforgettable faces, one of which was that of Nicola A. Montani, one of the greatest men in Liturgical Music. Under his inspired direction, the Glee Club made great strides toward its ultimate goal; namely, to become one of the greatest Male Glee Clubs in the country.

In 1947, Mr. Joseph A. Murphy was appointed director and one year later also became the Director of the Arch-diocesan Institute of Sacred Music. With Mr. Murphy wielding the baton, the club continued its ascent in ability and popularity.

The place of the Glee Club in the life of the University cannot be filled by any other agency, for it ranks among the best organizations on the campus. As a cultural factor and an educative device, it cannot be too highly praised, while as a form of recreation it appeals to all students regardless of whether they actually participate in its productions.

This year, while celebrating not only its Silver Anniversary but also its first appearance as a University Glee Club, the club has participated in more than twenty formal and informal concerts given at colleges, banquets, reunions and diversified affairs, highlighted by the Annual Spring Concert. Among the well-remembered engagements of this and previous years were concerts at Marywood College, Scranton, Pa.; Georgian Court; Caldwell College; College of Saint Elizabeth; Notre Dame, Staten Island; Ladycliff College; Chestnut Hill College, Phila.; College of New Rochelle; Marymount College, N.Y.C.; Mount Saint Vincent and Jersey City Medical Center.

SCOLA CANTORUM

The Schola Cantorum is composed of the resident students who, under the direction of Mr. Joseph A. Murphy have learned to skillfully blend their voices in both The Gregorian Chant and Polyphony. Reverend Edwin V. Sullivan is the moderator of the group.

Using their talent to the utmost advantage, the Schola Cantorum sang the responses at the High Mass which opened the first session of the University. They also led the group in the Benediction Hymns during Retreat. The last time the University as a whole had the privilege of hearing them sing was at the High Mass held in the University Gymnasium on the feast day of Saint Thomas Aquinas, March 7, 1951.

The excellence of their performances on each occasion that they are called upon for a public appearance is an indication of the many hours which they spend in practice and is also a tribute to the diligence of their director, Mr. Murphy.

DRAMATIC SOCIETY

The Dramatic Society is one of the most active organizations on the Seton Hall campus. The Society was formed with the purpose of acquainting its members with the fundamentals of acting and of offering an opportunity for applying those fundamentals in actual productions.

During the fall semester, the Society presented a comedy, "Light Up The Sky," on December 9, 10, 11, 1950, and played to a packed house on all three nights. Much of the credit for the success of this production, which in the opinion of many was the finest in The Society's history, must be given to the director, Mr. Raymond Lukshis.

Moreover, The Society, not content to rest upon its past deeds, immediately laid plans to present another play in the late spring, and every indication points to a repetition of the initial success.

The Literary Society was formed in the spring of 1950 when a group of men, because of their common interest in creative writing, banded together to compare their works and constructively criticize each other's efforts.

With the new school year, the Society acquired a formal organization and began to project plans for the future. The creation of the Department of Student Affairs offered the group opportunities which had not existed in previous years to a new organization. After lengthy deliberation, the Society determined to publish their works in a literary magazine. Electing Victor Stella Editor-in-Chief, the Society busily edited their manuscripts and prepared them for publication. Associate Editors Albert Vezzetti and Paul Gerbino, Secretary McCormick, Treasurer Gilleran, Circulation Manager Antos and Business Manager O'Connor directed the activities of the rest of the staff, concentrating their energies on the forthcoming publication. The Moderator, Mr. Jack P. Franzetti, supervised the entire procedure and offered many constructive suggestions.

In January 1951, Volume one, number one, of the Bayley Review appeared on the South Orange campus. It was an instantaneous success and many favorable comments, from students and faculty alike, were received. Thus encouraged, the Society formulated plans for their second edition which contained many more works of the same high caliber as the earlier issue.

With its initial success as an inspiration, the Society has made an auspicious beginning in the literary field.

BROWNSON DEBATING SOCIETY

Founded in the years before the Second World War, the Brownson Debating Society was named after the famous Catholic lay orator, Orestes Brownson. Although the society has grown through the years, its objectives have always remained the same. Realizing the power of ideas, the Brownson Debating Society has tried to provide the students of Seton Hall with a forensic outlet for their thought. It gives its members the opportunity to match their ideas with those of other college students, and in the process develop an effective speaking style.

Besides debating, the organization has engaged in many other related activities. It has participated in radio programs over WSOU, addressed various clubs and organizations, and sponsored social programs for its members. Last year the society took part in about thirty debates. It tied for first place in the National Federation of Catholic College Students Regional Tournament and scored victories over such teams as the University of Pennsylvania, Fordham, and St. John's University.

This year, with a roster numbering well over fifty, The Brownson Debating Society has plans for the most impressive schedule in its history. Among the schools which the Society has met and conquered this year are Princeton University, Drew University, and The University of Dayton. However, their greatest accomplishment this year has been their ability to rapidly indoctrinate new members in the art of debating, thus insuring the widest possible participation by the Society's membership, and providing the greatest number of men with the benefits which only debating offers.

INTER-RACIAL COUNCIL

Dr. Hammond and President Baker examine one of the historical documents in the Library.

The Interracial Council was formed at Seton Hall in 1946 by a small group of young men who recognized how often our practices oppose our Christian principles. Since then the Council has grown slowly but steadily, and is constantly attempting to inculcate in its members and the entire student body the principles of the oneness of mankind and the dignity of the individual, irrespective of race, creed, or national origin.

The Council, from its beginning, saw the need for intellectual awareness in its effort to combat prejudice. With this in mind, the members of the Council have tried to sell their ideas in as an appealing a manner as possible. Its Speakers' Bureau carries the Council's effectiveness beyond the campus by presenting educational programs of an interracial nature to outside organizations.

At different times during the year the Council has been honored to hear addresses from men prominent in the field of human relations. But the high point of the Interracial Council's year is Interracial Week. The Week, sponsored by the National Commission on Interracial Justice of the NFCCS, is observed between March fourth and eleventh. This year's activities included a library exhibit, Masses for the intentions of Blessed Martin dePorres, a poster contest which encompassed all Essex County secondary schools, and the creating of a general awareness in the student body of the importance of the Week.

The Council looks hopefully into the future to the day when all men will adhere to principles based upon equality and justice in dealing with their fellow-man and the need for such interracial organizations will be left in the past.

PHILOSOPHY CIRCLE

The Philosophy Circle this year has undergone numerous innovations rendering it an almost completely new organization. Retaining little of the characteristic informality which marked the club in its past, it now has a constitution, officers, and a Student Council representative.

Under the progressive guidance of its moderator, Mr. Charles Baatz, the Philosophy Circle has had a remarkably active year. Not only was its structure and organization renovated, but its projects, carefully planned and executed, proved to be a great success. One of these was the initiation of the regular monthly night meeting, the principal feature of which was the appearance of a prominent guest speaker. The first of these speakers was the Reverend Joseph Ryan, S.J., who spoke on Contemporary European Philosophy.

Another of the Philosophy Circle's accomplishments was the inauguration of a series of radio forums over station WSOU—round-table discussions on philosophical questions of the day. The participants consisted of Mr. Baatz and students selected from the club.

At the helm of this year's Philosophy Circle was Carmen Paterniti. It's vice president and Student Council representative was Dick Rento. Secretary and treasurer were, respectively, Gene Goceljak and John Ligos. Pete Greene acted as Public Relations officer.

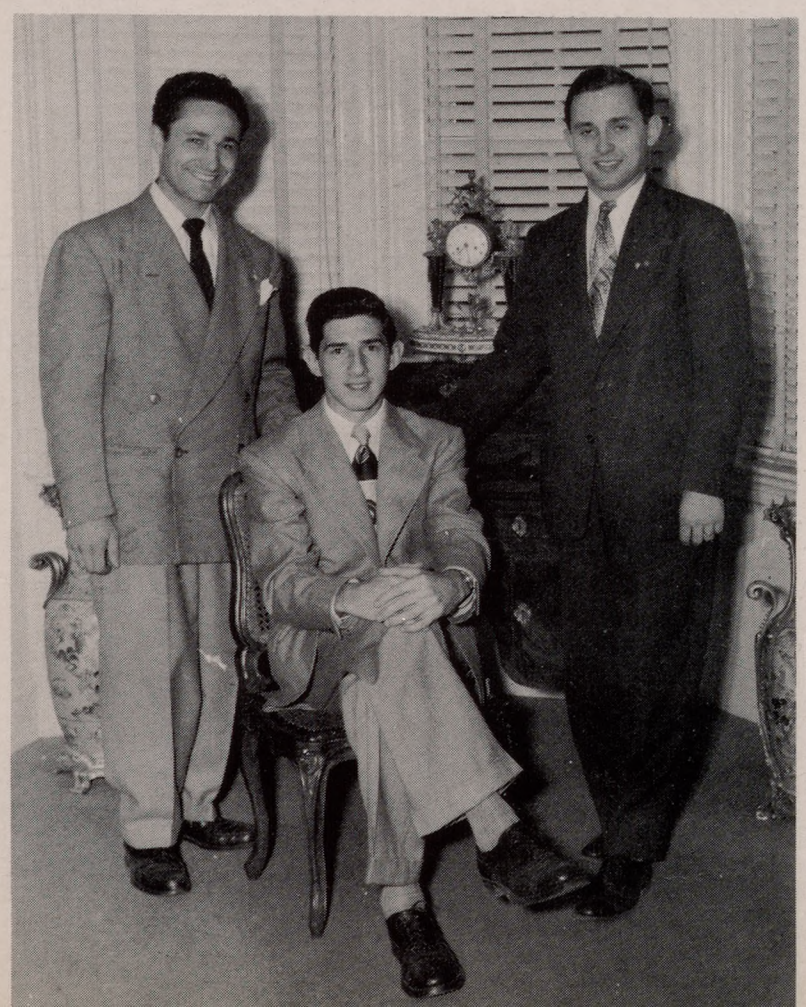
FRENCH CLUB

"Le Cercle Francais", the French Club of Seton Hall University, strongly encourages its members to a better study and appreciation of that resonant Romance language. To further this end, the club has sponsored French language publications, composed by members of the group. Furthermore, in order to bring about a better understanding of the French Nation, its culture and its people, the club has, from time to time, presented French Films for the benefit of the student body.

"Qu'est qui c'est passe?"



"Du fromage!"

The Modern Language Department, in conjunction with Le Cercle Francais, has sponsored guest speakers, both from our faculty and elsewhere, who have spoken on interesting topics concerning the cultures connected with Modern European Languages. There have also been informal talks at our meetings, given by French-speaking Students of the University.

This year a special project of "Le Cercle Francais" has been the production of a series of radio programs, which have consisted of plays and short dialogues and monologues. These programs have been recorded and will be heard by French radio audiences.

ITALIAN CLUB

Since its inception in February of 1949, the Italian Club of Seton Hall has endeavored to achieve the goals set forth in its constitution. There are: to promote educational and cultural activities of an Italian nature; to promote a better spirit of cooperation and comradeship among the students of Seton Hall, and above all, to integrate all things in God.

Under the guidance of its moderator, Mr. Carlo Prisco, the Italian Club, during the second semester of its existence, successfully executed its first major project, the publishing of its own newspaper, "La Fiamma".

In the interests of cultural and social activities, Esperia has sponsored Italian films and, through its membership in the Federation of College Italian Clubs, has participated in many social affairs whose proceeds are used to finance the education of needy college students in Italy.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club of Seton Hall University had its inception one fall afternoon in 1949 in McQuaid Hall, where a small but keenly enthusiastic group of young men met to formulate plans for the new enterprise.

Club activities during the year included book reports on Spanish classics and presentation of motion picture travelogues depicting the people, life and customs of Latin countries.

It is clear that interests in things Spanish is still far from on the wane here on the Seton Hall campus. Proper channeling of club activities into fields from whence the most knowledge may be derived concerning Spain and our Ibero-American neighbors has resulted in renewed enthusiasm on the part of the Spanish Club. Leonard Rahilly has been the man most responsible for the success of this group.

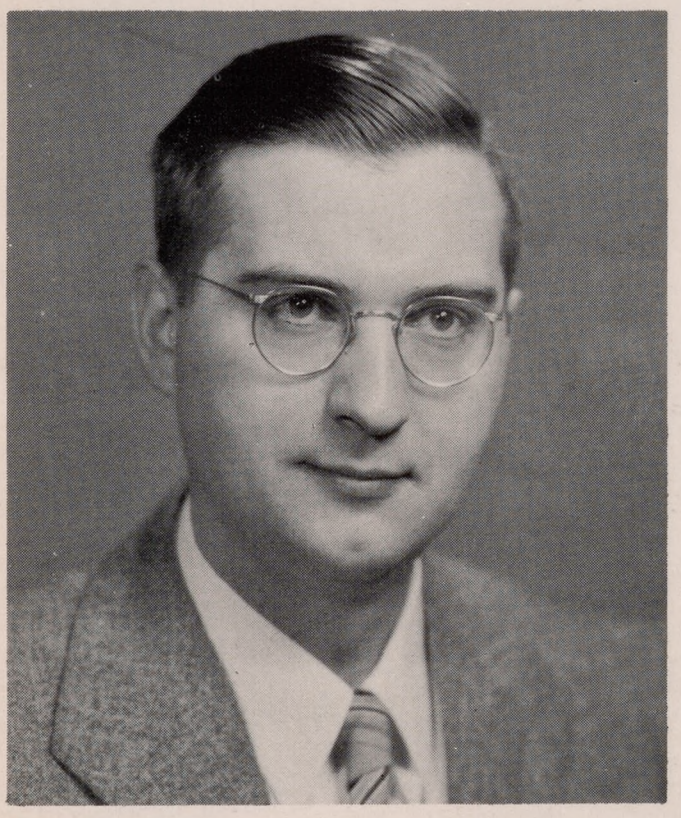
MARKETING CLUB



Mr. Stanley Strand

The Marketing Club is the Student Chapter of the American Marketing Association at Seton Hall University. It is the newest club on the campus, being formed on December 13, 1950. At the first meeting, fifty-five students became members, which is a significant indication of the club's popularity.

The purpose of this Seton Hall student organization is to foster scientic study and research in the field of marketing, to develop sound thinking in marketing theory and to develop better public understanding of marketing problems.

The club has proved to be a valuable aid in promoting friendly relations between students and prominent men in the field of marketing. The personal interest taken by its faculty moderator, Mr. Stanley Strand, gave great impetus to the progress of the club.

An advertising forum was held in March with outstanding men from the field as guest speakers. The main social event of the year was the annual dinner held in April, at which the members were informed of modern business techniques and methods.

ACADEMY OF SCIENCE

Since its organization, the Academy of Science has grown to be one of the largest chapters of the American Chemical Society affiliates in the United States. The purpose of this group is to broaden the student's outlook both socially and scientifically. This is accomplished by such functions as the Autumn Dance, an annual banquet, intercollegiate meetings, and numerous lectures arranged under the auspices of the parent organization.

Lectures this year were given by men prominent in such industries as Standard Oil Development Center, Textile Division of American Cyanamid Company, Ciba Pharmaceutical Company, and the National Dairy Products Research Laboratories. These outstanding men of Science, helped the undergraduates by arousing their interest in some specific phase of the science they are currently studying. Accompanying these talks are tours of related industrial plants, so that the student may see for himself just what he will have to do once he has graduated.

Seton Hall's Chapter has been instrumental in forming an Intercollegiate Council of the A.C.S. chapters in New Jersey colleges. Through this organization members get better acquainted with fellow students in their respective fields and gain invaluable experience in preparing technical and scientific papers which they present before an audience of their peers.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS ORGANIZATION

MSGR. JOHN ABBO
Moderator

Crisis in Korea! Usurpation in Yugoslavia! Anarchy in The Argentine! What are the stories behind those headlines? Students have always been noted for their curiosity and, the further up the ladder of education a man advances, the greater his inquisitiveness becomes.

The problems of men in society have always held a certain fascination for all college students, and the origin of the International Relations Organization grew out of this fascination. Founded in 1946, the Organization has been confronted with a tense and challenging international situation since the first days of its inception.

Very Reverend Monsignor John A. Abbo, the Organization's Moderator, has a background which admirably qualifies him to guide the group in their discussions. A former member of the Vatican diplomatic corps, Monsignor Abbo has traveled extensively through Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Germany, Poland and Sweden. While in these countries, his official duties afforded him a complete view of Baltic politics. Moreover, he has served the Holy See in both the United States and Canada. Transferring to the Arch-diocese of Newark, Monsignor Abbo has taught Political Science and Political Philosophy at Seton Hall for the last three years.

Many members of the faculty have, throughout the year, given the Organization the benefit of their wide experience in special discussions of world-wide international developments, giving special consideration to the origin and possible solution of these problems.

The International Relations Commission of the National Federation of Catholic College Students provided a further source of information to be used as a basis for the Organization's discussions. The Commission's monthly bulletins contained a variety of information, and the Organization posted these bulletins for the benefit of the general student body.

Edward McNelis was the president of the International Relations Organization, and he was admirably assisted by Thaddeus Gromada, vice president. The other officers who adequately filled their positions were Treasurer Tom Haber, Secretary Richard Maiorino, Publicity Director Raymond Brooks, and Student Council Representative Robert Vinour.

ST. THOMAS MORE SOCIETY

Now in its eleventh year of existence, the Saint Thomas More Pre-Legal Society has continued its fine program of service to the Seton Hall men who maintain an active interest in either the legal profession or in law in general.

Moderator Mr. William R. Dineen continued his excellent service to the group, again securing numerous speakers who, all being experts in their respective fields, were able to thoroughly acquaint their audiences with many different facets of the law in operation.

Assisting Mr. Dineen in the preparations necessary for these special occasions and also conducting the routine business of the Society were President Carmine Paterniti, Vice-President Daniel Dalton, Treasurer Phil Thigpen and Secretary Ray Brooks. Daniel Dalton also represented the Society in the Student Council.

The members of the Saint Thomas More Pre-Legal Society who plan to enter the profession were again fortunate in having the usual efficient service of information concerning entrance requirements, as well as pertinent information about the Law School Admission Tests. These tests are prepared by The Educational Testing Service and are standard national tests. To insure complete promulgation of this pertinent information, the Society enlisted the help of the Setonian.

The former Society members who have achieved fame in the legal profession are excellent witnesses to the merits of the organization and are at the same time a challenging example to their successors. Needless to say, they also reflect glory upon their Alma Mater.

EDUCATION CLUB

Seton Hall's Education Club was organized shortly before World War II. When its activities were again revived many changes were possible due to a wider interest in its purposes. Among the objectives of the Education Club is the plan to further augment and integrate the studies of those men who are interested in teaching as a career. The Club strives to reach this objective by helping its members gain practical experience through observing various school systems at work and also endeavors to provide them with contemporary problems and their solutions through qualified speakers from the profession.

P. Petosa, F. Flaherty, R. Brooks, Mr. D. Murray, F. Schwager, G. Lussier.

Seton Hall's Physical Education Club coordinates the activities of the men who are the future coaches and physical education instructors of America's youth. Realizing that there are many phases of their field which cannot be covered in the classroom, the men of the Physical Education Department have formed a club under the moderatorship of Mr. Nicholas J. Menza to fill this void.

Through their membership in this organization the future coaches form friendships which in future years will be a common bond for united action in their chosen field. The cooperation which can result from such associations can only be imagined, but the benefits cannot be doubted. These benefits will accrue not only to the individuals involved but to their Alma Mater as well.

The Club sponsors several outstanding social events each year, although its objectives are primarily realized through the business meetings and projects which are held regularly.

The men who guided the on-campus program of the Club this year were President Nicholas Guarino, Vice-President Richard Uzee, Treasurer Theodore Boudreau, and Secretary Harry Crenner. Cy Regan served as representative to the Student Council.

In achieving these objectives the organization has developed a full program, and has carried that program to a succesful conclusion. Many field trips have been conducted to nearby educational institutions, and numerous speakers, among whom was Dr. Joseph Connors, Head of Seton Hall's Department of Education, have been guests of the Club.

The Education Club was fortunate in being able to work with the Education Commission of the National Federation of Catholic College Students. This Commission, which is unique with the New York-New Jersey Region, has presented a very active program. One of the principal factors for the success of this program was the fine cooperation and assistance of Seton Hall's Education Club.

In addition to all of these activities, the Club, under the supervision of Moderator Mr. Daniel Murray, conducted a survey with the purpose of compiling sufficient data to determine curriculum trends in secondary schools throughout New Jersey.

Activities such as these have proven to be invaluable to the Club members. They are shining examples of why the Education Club has become one of the most active and efficient organizations of Seton Hall.

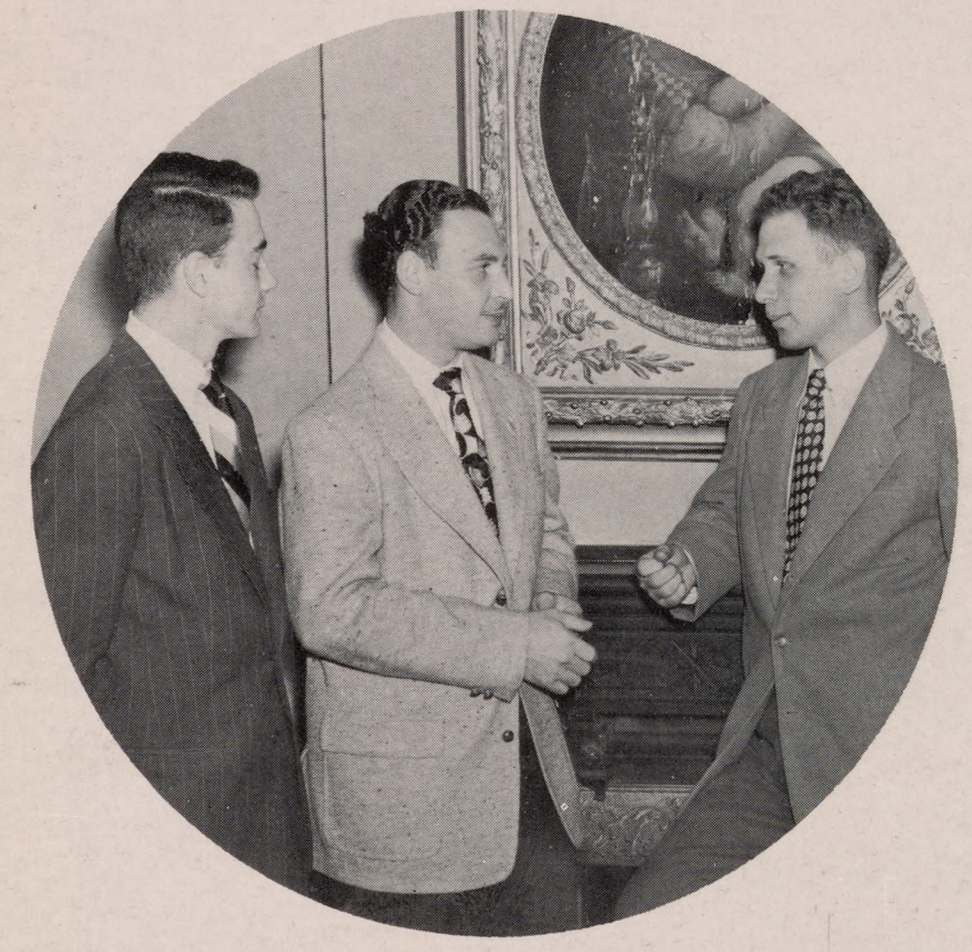
PSYCHOLOGY CLUB



D. Mathews, S. Fried, and T. Russell in a discussion of women in psychology.

The purpose of the Seton Hall Psychological Society is to provide a common medium of expression for all students having a serious interest in psychology. Membership in the Society is open to all the students enrolled in Seton Hall University.

The society's functions and activities are varied and interesting, ranging from experiments of many types under the direction of the moderator, Mr. Neal Rorke, to field trips to state and private mental institutions. From time to time outstanding men come to the society to lecture on psychological and related subjects.

Films with a bearing on psychology are periodically shown. From these films the members are able to follow in detail many experiments not possible here at Seton Hall.

The society has constructed experimental equipment to be used in the laboratory. This equipment, along with that purchased by the department, is available to all members. There is also a well-equipped work room where members may construct new equipment when it is needed. In the past, many informative experiments have been performed and the data compiled should prove useful in future experiments. One of the most notable accomplishments of the Society was its assistance in carrying out the junior testing program of last year, and the freshman testing program of this year, under the direction of the Guidance Center.

The Business Club of Seton Hall University was organized early in October 1950. Under the moderatorship of Mr. Robert Kautzmann and the leadership of five very capable officers it has grown to be one of the largest organizations on the campus. The object of the Business Club is to acquaint the students of the School of Business with modern business techniques and practices.

In endeavoring to achieve these ends the Business Club has sponsored a series of talks by men who are leaders in the business field. The first in this series was held in November 1950, when Mr. Walter Bogue, Sales Manager of Seeley Tube and Box Company, addressed the Business Club members at a luncheon held at the Village Inn in South Orange.

The major function of the year for the Business Club was the Annual Banquet, which was held on December 12, 1950 at the Hotel Suburban in East Orange. Herbert M. Schiffer, Dean of the School of Business of New York University, was the guest speaker.

This year's Business Club has laid a firm foundation upon which future members will have no difficulty erecting an organization which will become a tower of strength in Seton Hall's extra-curricular family.

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT

The Society for the Advancement of Management is the recognized national professional society of management personnel in industry, commerce, government, and education. It is motivated by an interest in spreading the benefits of scientific management wherever management is required.

The Seton Hall Chapter was organized in the summer of 1948 when it was realized that an organization was needed in which the student majoring in Business Administration could become acquainted with the practical application of the scientific principles of management.

Sponsored by the Northern New Jersey Chapter, Society for the Advancement of Management, The Seton Hall University Chapter received its charter on November 30, 1948.

The chapter at Seton Hall has for its purpose: To conduct and promote, through research, discussion, publication and other appropriate means, the scientific study of the principles governing organized effort in industrial and economic life, including both labor and management.

The program of the chapter is arranged to encourage and stimulate interest and understanding in the practical application of the scientific principles of management through the media of research and discussion groups, lectures by prominent men in the field of management and labor, plant visits to industries in the vicinity and motion pictures on management and labor.

During the past five years Seton Hall has been fortunate in having students from New England matriculate to her campus. Following the old precept that man is a gregarious animal these men organized into a social group to while away their leisure hours sharing memories of home.

Faced with many losses suffered through graduation, the New England Club this year became an informal organization, united only by their common origin. Despite their inability to carry out any organized activities, the members still gather together and exchange experiences and memories.

Mr. James R. Donovan, Moderator, has done much to rekindle interest in the organization and it is hoped that his efforts will be blessed by a strong and active group in the not too distant future.

ORDER OF THE CROSS AND CRESCENT

One of the most significant occurrences in the recent history of the University was the rebirth of the undergraduate student honor society, The Order Of The Cross and Crescent. Years ago, election to the society crowned the hopes of every true Setonian. Under the tutelage of the Reverend Doctor Thomas W. Cunningham, the Order promises to re-establish the primacy it once enjoyed.

The nature of the honor society is such that it must necessarily occupy an important place in the University schema. The requirements for membership are four-fold: religious, academic, extra-curricular, and personal. Catholic students must demonstrate a sincere religious attitude while non-Catholic students must display a respect for religion and fidelity to moral principles. In addition, all candidates must possess a minimum scholastic average of B; actively participate in at least one campus activity; and display the savoir faire proper to true university gentlemen.

It is interesting to note that the honor society derives its name from the Cross, representing Jesus Christ, our Lord and Savior, and the Crescent, representing the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Seat of Wisdom—symbolic of faith and intellect. Small wonder then that the Order has once again become an integral part of campus life.

WHO'S WHO

"Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" is a national publication, which endeavors each year to acknowledge the individual contributions of every outstanding American college student by permanently inscribing the names in this nation-wide scroll of honor. Since nearly every American University and College is represented, inclusion in "Who's Who" is considered to be a mark of great esteem. In addition, certificates are awarded those students who have earned the right to be listed in this publication.

In keeping with its newly acquired position in the higher learning in America, Seton Hall was singularly honored by the inclusion of some thirty-odd men in the 1951 edition. This year, the selection of nominees for "Who's Who" was entrusted to the Faculty-Student Committee. The men who received the final nominations were all Seniors who, during their four-year stay at Seton Hall, had demonstrated superior scholarship, achievement in extra-curricular activities, good citizenship and service to the University and gentlemanly conduct, and promise of future usefulness to society.

Today, the world stands in need of an intelligent and inspired moral leadership. With such men as these, Seton Hall will provide the answer to this need and perhaps fulfill a greater promise.

Seton Hall's convocation program again brought many of America's outstanding businessmen before the student body. Appearing under the general theme of the "Romance of Business," these men who have successfully amassed a large portion of the world's goods, graciously consented to share some of the secrets of that success with the undergraduates of Seton Hall.

Any Catholic college student, regardless of his field of chosen endeavor, can profit greatly from the views of contemporary economic conditions as portrayed by the leaders of our country's industry.

ELECTIONS

Trying to pick a winner . . .

We won!!!!!!

Believing that democracy is applicable to all societies, Seton Hall University holds student elections twice a year. Under the supervision of the Student Council a committee is formed to determine the specific rules under which the elections will be held.

The Committee then promulgates these rules, and the race is on. Tickets are formed, petitions are circulated, position on the ballot is determined and the campaign begins in earnest. Most campaigns are vigorously carried out and, when at the end of a busy week the winners are announced, the best man is usually on top, proving the value of this democratic training.

What did Honey Russell inherit at the beginning of the season? Was it a strong team, one picked to dominate the basketball scene or just another team struggling to rise up over the levels of mediocrity?

The Joe Setons had the team lined up with Walt Dukes pushing 6'8" Dave Putnam onto the bench, or perhaps teaming up with Dave to give the Hall a terrific height advantage; Regan as the playmaker, and then in order, Sam Lackaye, Dave Latimer, and Bobby Hurt. But the main strength of the team lay in its reserves. Russell, eyeing the team before the season began, remarked that perhaps he had just a little too much material to choose from, after all, you can only use five men at a time. Strong? Yes, the team was strong. How was its future? The analysts had Seton winning a maximum of twenty games and losing seven. They cited lack of experience as the main factor which would hold them back.

At the season's start the Hall proceeded to run through its first four opponents. Despite the winning streak, however, the team was not consistent. Russell was still looking for his five men. Louisville caught Russell still looking. During the next three wins the Pirates began to look better, but once again too much material reared its ugly head, resulting in losses to Siena and Saint Bonaventure's. Russell then solved the problem with the now famous two platoon system. The team looped through eight straight wins and then met LIU. We lost, but the game could have gone either way as the team looked well. How well Villanova knew a few nights later. Two wins and Villanova again, but the well had run dry. Three more wins and the team had an unexpected twenty-two and five record, the ECIAC crown, AND a bid to the NIT.

Beloit was The Hall's first opponent and the Pirates had little difficulty in scoring an easy 71-57 triumph. In the second game, the Setonians faced the powerful North Carolina State five, the top offensive team in the nation. State jumped to an early lead and it seemed that they would have an easy time of it. However, the Pirates began to move and, with big Walt Dukes playing the best game of his career, North Carolina was chased right out of the Garden.

Now The Hall went wild. We were going all the way. Nearly two thousand students jammed Madison Square Garden for the semi-final game between Seton Hall and Brigham Young. They came with bugles, banners, noisemakers, dates, vibrating lungs, and great expectations. We were going all the way. But a smooth-working Brigham Young quintet would not listen and shattered the Setonian dream with a very businesslike 69-59 score.

Brigham Young went on to win the National Invitational Tournament by defeating the University of Dayton in the finals. In the consolation game, the embattled Pirates of Seton Hall lost to St. Johns University in double overtime, 70-68.

Playing in the NIT for the first time since 1941, The Hall battled gallantly to place among the finalists. Perhaps next year, the Pirates will go all the way. In any event, Seton Hall can be justly proud of this year's achievements.

"Mother told me there would be days like this . . ."

The rise of the Seton Hall soccer team during the past four years has been a meteoric one. In 1947, Bill Garry, then in his senior year, was named player-coach. However, there seemed to be neither the interest nor the material to keep the sport alive. But in 1948, the name of Bill Sheppell in the Blue and White lineup brightened the future, and from then on, soccer gained a foothold in the major sports program at Seton Hall.

In 1949, Sheppell became the first All-American soccer player from the Hall, and this year, Sheppell and Jim Hanna were named to the All-America roster with Marty Kelly getting Honorable Mention.

The Blue and White booters were undefeated this season in twelve starts, winning ten and tying two. One of the features of the campaign was the three to nothing white-washing that the pirates handed to the Howard University combine which had not lost to an American college squad for several seasons. Another great contest was the 0-0 deadlock between the Pirates and the ever powerful Brockport State Teachers.

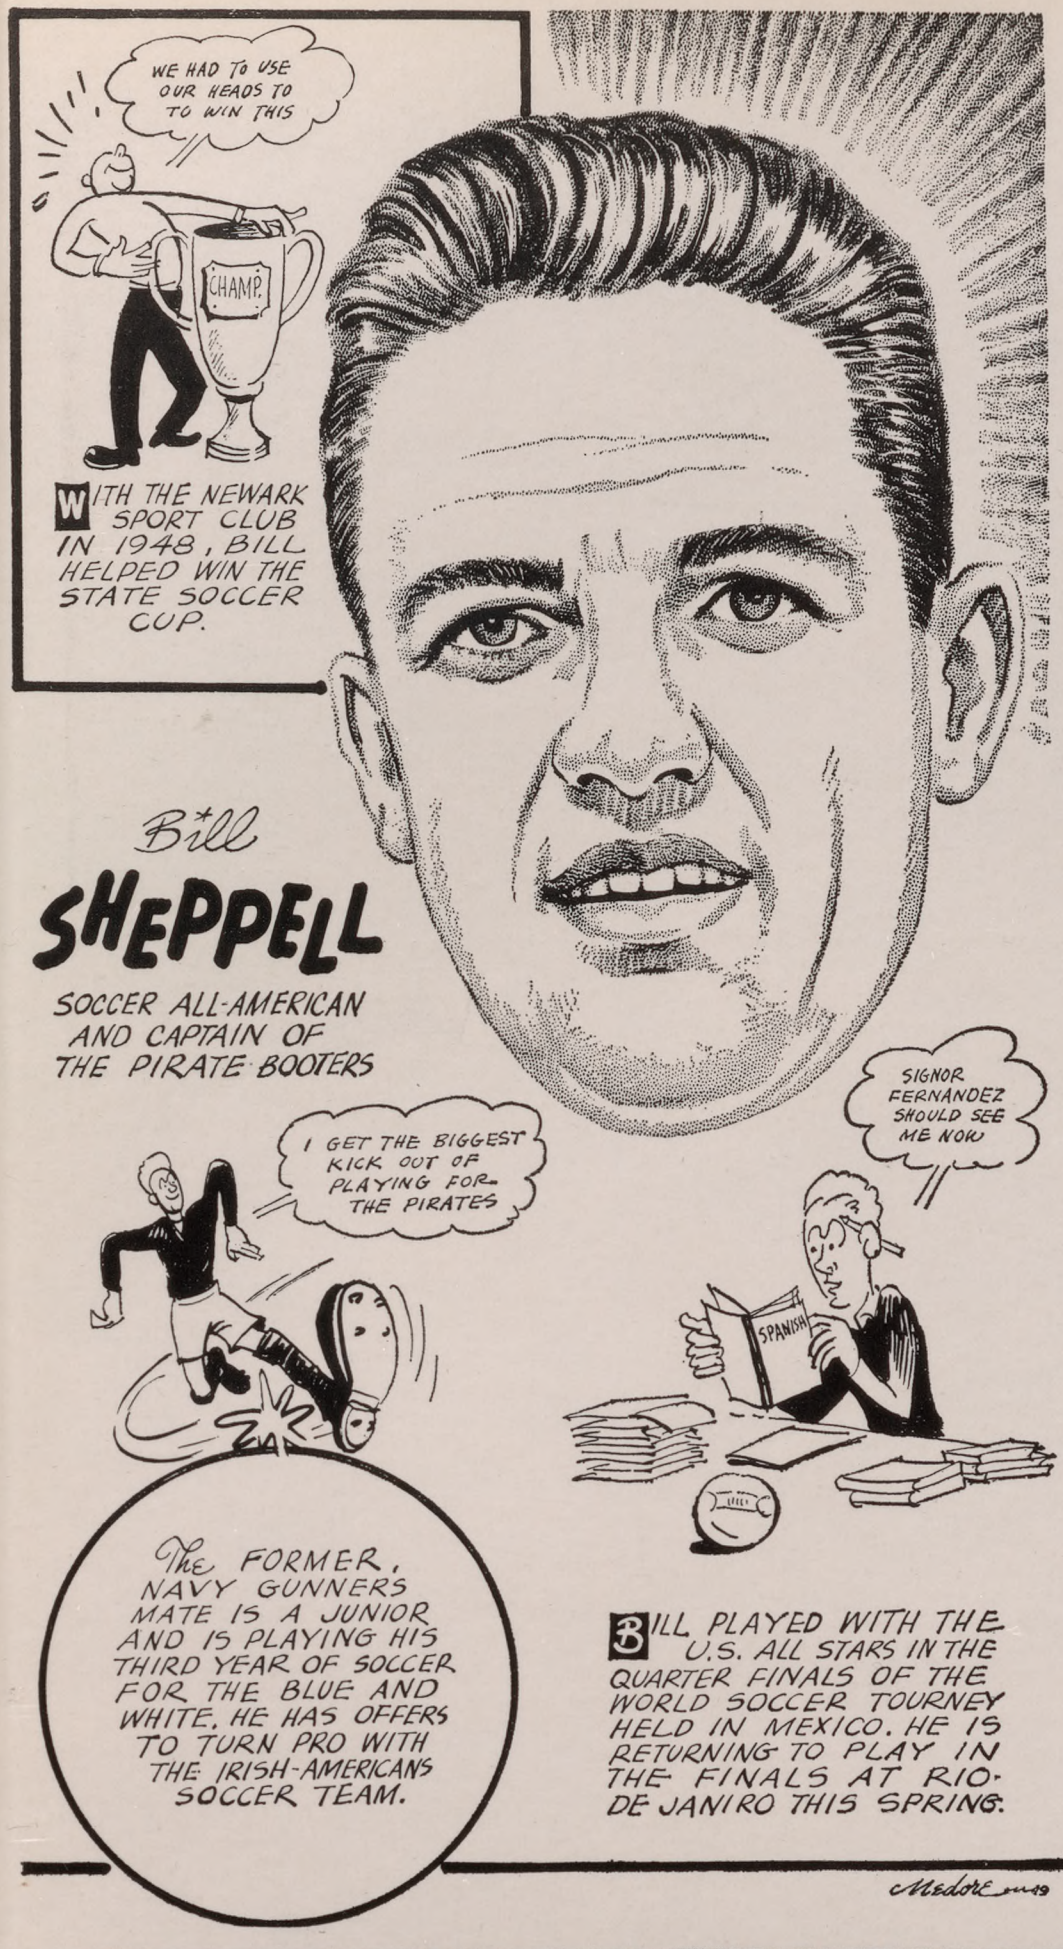
"Shall we dance?"



Over there!

Bill Sheppell, one of Seton Hall's most famous students, is also one of her most modest ones. Bill's skill as a soccer player has been demonstrated on his many tours throughout Europe and South America, while his proficiency as a scholar is shown by his frequent appearances on the Dean's List. An All-American for three years, Bill is a walking example of the sportsmanship typical of all Setonian athletes.

Under the reins of Coach John Ferinden, the Seton Hall swimming team has been crowned Eastern Collegiate Swimming Champions for the past two seasons. Last year, they wrested the title from Rutgers University, who had held the crown for 12 consecutive years. Rutgers finished strongly this season in the competition, and tied the Hall in the finals as each squad garnered 67 points, leaving ten other teams in their wake.

Moreover, during the regular season's competition the Blue and White mermen dunked eight of their nine opponents, including the boys of the Old Raritan. The score was 43-32 as Rutgers succumbed to the Pirates in the last meet of the season. Others who fell victim to the Hall were Bridgeport, and the strong LaSalle and Penn State teams.

During the Eastern Collegiate Swimming meet Aaron Kurtzman was crowned champion of the breast stroke and Lou Benza won blue ribbon honors in the 220 and 440 yard free style races.

Andy Stanfield and Phil Thigpen, Seton Hall's perennial IC4A champions, bulwarked by a crack mile relay team built around Bob Carter and Charlie Slade, led Setonia's 1951 quest for eastern and national track honors.

A month of flat-floor running, preview to the Madison Square Garden campaign, produced mile relay victories in the Brooklyn K. of C. and the Washington Star games. Ed McCardle won the 1,000 yard race at the Metropolitan A. A. U. handicap games, while Stanfield swept the Great American Sprint Series and Phil Thigpen scored a repeat triumph in the Grand Knight 880 in the Brooklyn meet. With this victory, Thigpen, a January graduate, closed the record books on a career which brought a total of four intercollegiate and national A. A. U. titles to the Hall. His loss was to be sorely felt in the forthcoming A. A. U. and IC4A championships.

Morrie Curotta, Harry Bright, Charlie Slade and Bob Carter won the Anderson Cup one mile relay at the Millrose Games as the Garden campaign opened. Two weeks later Frank Turner and Ed McCardle teamed with Slade and Carter to win the New York A. C. Games one mile relay as a final tune-up for the A. A. U. and IC4A championships.

the broad jump and second in the 60 yard dash, and a mile relay win on the strength of Carter's 48.4 anchor leg, the Pirates placed second in the A. A. U. meet, trailing the Pioneer Club of New York. Johnny Gibson's crew achieved the singular honor of being the top-placed collegiate entry in the meet.

When the final points were tallied at the IC4A Games one week later, Seton Hall was second a scant one and two sevenths points behind Manhattan College. Trailing the Pirates in team standings were such track powers as Georgetown, Cornell, Army, Yale and Penn State. Four individual titles fell to the Setonians during the course of the night. Andy Stanfield copped the 60 yard dash and the broad jump, Bob Carter kicked home a yard ahead of teammate Harry Bright to take the 600, and the mile relay team of Turner, Slade, Curotta, and Carter raced to a 3'19.6" win.

The record bears admirable testimony to the high caliber of the 1951 Pirate tracksters. They rank with Seton Hall's and the nation's all-time greats.

Coach "Ownie" Carroll

The class of '51 has seen a rejuvenation on the Seton Hall diamond which is reminiscent of the upsurge in basketball during th days of Bob Davies and the Wonder Team.

In 1948, Ownie Carroll, outstanding collegiate and professional hurler in his own right, assumed the duties as head coach, replacing Davies. With Carroll at the helm, the Pirates came into port at the end of the season with a record of 13 wins and two defeats. One of the highlights of the season was an invasion of the banks of the Old Raritan, and in true Pirate fashion, the snapping of an 11 game skein that Rutgers had compiled. Red Sweeney led the Blue and White moundsmen with a record of six wins and no defeats.

The spring of '49 brought with it the toughest schedule that a Pirate nine had ever seen. It was the club's pitching staff which brought the Blue and White through with an 18 and three record—a record good enough for an invitation to the NCAA tournament.

As the beginning of the 1950 season rolled around, great things were predicted for the ball club if the pitching came through. With an all senior pitching staff, and six of the eight regulars from the '49 powerhouse returning, the predictions seemed to be reasonable. However, the rains came, the team was forced indoors for its pre-season drill, and the Hall dropped the opener to a revengeful LIU nine.

The early season rains continued and some of the better games on the slate were postponed. Among the washouts was our traditional rival, Villanova. The Blue and White swept 11 of the next 14 games as the pitching staff and the sluggers got the needed outdoor work. Outstanding mound veterans such as Ken Oliver, Bob Groben, Tony Pellarin and ace reliever Fred Adams returned to their old form. Opposing pitchers had troubles with the combination of sluggers and hitters in the lineup as Ted Lepcio, Jim Blakemore, Doc Ayers, John St. John, Jack Fuchs, and Paul Fiorita, began to get good wood on the ball. In the remaining games of the season the Pirates dropped one to Ithaca, and had a four game winning streak under way as they hung up their uniforms for the year. The record of 15 wins in 20 starts gives no indication of the Blue and White's amazing comeback after a dismal start.

One of the features of the year was Tony Pellarin's one hitter against St. Peter's. Pellarin was robbed of a no hitter when a batted ball struck a base runner, thereby crediting the batter with an automatic single. The Hall went ten innings to win, one to nothing.

TENNIS

After finishing the 1950 campaign above the .500 mark for the second consecutive year, the tennis squad, under the tutelage of senior Lynn Abbot hopes to improve in the coming campaign. Abbot, now in his senior year at the Hall, has taken over the coaching duties which were vacated by Robert Ansheles, professor of sociology, who left the Seton Hall campus this year to return to his alma mater, St. Michaels of Vermont.

Among those who will be missed on the courts this season are Al McDonald, Justin McCarthy, and Ed Schor. Returning are Lynn Abbot, considered one of the top ranking tennis players in the East, Joe McCormick, Tony Gianetta, Floyd Roy, Bob Peacock, Carmen Celiano, Joe Hammond, Joe Schleck, Cliff Davey, Larry Reilly, Guy Yo, and Pete Johnson. Ronald Horan is the team's manager.

The squad's 1950 record of ten and seven included wins over St. Johns, Manhattan, Boston College, LaSalle, King's Point and Brockport.

The Student Athletic Association, with its officers elected by the student body, serves to assist the Director of Athletics in the administration of the intercollegiate and intramural sports program. The Association makes recommendations to the managers of the various sports, assists in the promotion of the athletic committees, and serves as a reception committee for the teams which visit the campus.

SETON HALL UNIVERSITY

SOUTH ORANGE

NEW JERSEY

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

My dear Graduates:

Progress was always considered as a direct march into the future, but the philosophy with such a concept proved to be most harmfulin the field of thought. At Seton Hall, the basic principle, both of progress and of wisdom, is that the method of traveling through the earth is similar to that of a wheel; that you never go forward unless you go back to the point from which you started. This was the basic judgment that produced the idea of a commencement as the terminus of an educational process, because in the perfection of knowledge there is no end on earth and every phase of educational experience, when it comes to the conclusion of a specific objective, is only the beginning of a new adventure. Even death is only a commencement. Thus we have the commencement at grammar school, junior high school, high school, college, and university, so that the great humility of knowing that a senior is always a freshman of tomorrow will make us understand that we must cling to the roots and the institutions that are stable.

Seton Hall recalls that thought to you today in the hope that, as tyros in the affairs of the world, as interns in medical schools, as clerks in law offices, as junior executives in the field of commerce, you shall always be coming back to the principles of Seton Hall that you may make progress in the march of the world.

So, farewell! You are leaving an institution that is solidly built with strong ideals; an Alma Mater who has concern for each child. She will welcome your return and pray for those who forget her. Like all Alma Mater's, her hopes for her child are longer and dearer and higher than any commencement you may experience.

Sincerely,

John L McNulty

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Galleon staff wishes to take this opportunity to acknowledge the outstanding debts that the services of the following people have placed upon it:

Reverend Edward J. Fleming, in his capacity as moderator, has done his utmost to insure the success of this publication.

Mr. Austin Whitney of Progress Associates Inc. has shown infinite patience and understanding in helping us solve our many problems. Moreover, the entire staff of the corporation has done its utmost to make our task easier.

Zamsky Studios have again done an excellent job on the photographs. We wish to acknowledge our special debt to Miss Anne McCarthy, Miss Louise Crisci, Mr. Aldo Bellino, and Mr. Bernard Lamberti.

The Department of Student Affairs, through its Director, Mr. Maurice W. LeCalvez, has greatly alleviated many of the onerous tasks of yearbook production and we shall be ever grateful for that assistance.

Our student photographers have taken many unusual pictures of campus ilfe and these photographs may be found in our publication. We especially wish to thank Jack Boyland, Jerry Greenfield, Jay Morse, Don Myers and Frank Sweeney.

The Newark Evening News has given us excellent cooperation in our attempt to increase our coverage of the University's athletic program.

We realize that these are only our outstanding debts, and we wish to thank all those who in any way have contributed to the success of our book.
